PREFACE.

THIS volume comprises a second edition of the portion of the School Register printed in 1891, and a continuation of the list of admissions from Easter, 1887, to the present term. The names, as is well known, are taken from the Headmaster's Album, and the revision consists in replacing, where possible, by full names the initials by which alone some of the parents have been registered; in adding changes of their rank or title; in inserting the letters O.R., followed by the dates of their entering the School, when the fact of their being themselves Old Rugbeians has been ascertained; in correcting mistakes in the names of the sons, and in stating the order of their birth, whenever this information has been supplied; and lastly, in giving the date of leaving. In the annotation the design has been to append to each name the principal School, College, and other educational honours or distinctions; the entry upon any profession or business, with dates; and the present address. An Athletic Record is also included, but is confined to the principal School Events, the Football XV., the Cricket XI., the Shooting VIII., the Racquet Pair, and the Crick Run. An asterisk following the numerals denotes the position of twelfth man for cricket, or its equivalent in football or shooting.

The Register Forms, instituted in 1891, to be filled up by boys in their first term, and to supply details not contained in the Album, have proved of great value in revising the entries, which ought to be now nearly perfect. For the annotation, circulars have been posted to all Old Rugbeians of the period embraced, but the percentage of replies has been very low, and many of the replies were incomplete. To trace the careers of those who failed to reply, lists have been sent to all House Masters; and local lists to Old Rugbeians in some thirty of the large towns; and the Editor has received much help from these sources.

Among the entries of those who are still in the School, it will be observed that in some instances the name of the House Master is not given. In recent years it has been customary for boys to board for their first term or more in what are known as Small Houses, awaiting a vacancy in the House for which their names have been entered. These Small Houses are all reckoned as "Town," but that word is only printed when a boy has left the School before a vacancy in a Boarding House occurred. In these cases an asterisk follows the word Town. Where no House is inserted, it must be understood that the boy is still waiting for a vacancy.

Besides those mentioned above, the Editor's thanks are specially due to Dr. James for his appeal to the Press, and other help; to Morris Davies, O.R., for his untiring zeal in this, as in all Rugby interests; and to A. J. Lawrence, O.R., whose readiness to undertake the publication of books relating to the School deserves the fullest recognition; and above all to W. G. Michell, who, though not an O.R., has taken the greatest interest in the work, and who not only afforded very considerable help in the collection of information, but, by brushing aside certain difficulties which stood in the way of a revision of the entire Register, made the issue of this edition practicable, and may thus be considered the father of the work.

The name of House printed after the entries signifies, as a rule, the House in which boys came. But in cases in which boys were temporarily in the Town, it is the House to which they were eventually admitted. A House Master's name may therefore appear at a date earlier than the above list indicates.

A Standing Committee of Masters and Old Rugbeians was appointed by the Headmaster in 1899, to consult on the printing of the School Register, and all communications relating to entries should be addressed to the "REGISTER COMMITTEE, RUGBY SCHOOL."
